INTRODUCTION

Plaintiff is currently serving a term of 174 years and 4 months in prison. (Complaint ¶ 15). This prison term follows his conviction of charges including peeping, burglary, rape and robbery with a deadly weapon. (Id.) Plaintiff's trial commenced on January 11, 1982. (Complaint ¶ 22). Plaintiff was convicted on March 22, 1982. (Complaint ¶ 25). Following his conviction at trial, Plaintiff has unsuccessfully pursued the reversal of his conviction through the appeals process since 1983. (Complaint ¶ 24). Plaintiff lost his "direct appeal" of his conviction on August 26,

1 1983. (Complaint ¶ 25). Since that time, Plaintiff has filed numerous appeals and habeas corpus
 2 actions in both state and federal court. (Complaint ¶¶ 27-57).

3 Subsequent to his conviction, “an order to destroy or release trial exhibits was issued by 4 the Superior Court on August 6, 1987.” (Complaint ¶ 25). This order was sent to Plaintiff’s trial
 5 attorney, E. Hodge Crabtree III. (Id.) Plaintiff alleges that the “evidence in the trial Court’s
 6 possession was destroyed or otherwise disposed of in February 22, 1987¹.” (Id.)

7 There were eighteen victims involved in the crimes Plaintiff was convicted of. (Complaint
 8 ¶ 23). During trial of these charges, Plaintiff maintained his innocence. (Complaint ¶ 16).
 9 Plaintiff believes that the DNA samples taken from the victims may be able to exonerate him of 10 the crimes he was found to have committed. (Complaint ¶ 17). However, these DNA samples no
 11 longer exist as they were destroyed pursuant to an order of the Superior Court.

12 Plaintiff now brings this 42 U.S.C. § 1983 (“Section 1983”) suit against seemingly 13 everyone who was involved in his criminal trial, including the police detectives involved in his 14 arrest. Plaintiff attempts to assert a claim for relief based on an alleged civil rights violation
 15 against all of these defendants for the destruction of the DNA evidence. As will be shown, as to 16 these moving defendants, the San Diego Police Department and Detective J. Dreis², Plaintiff’s
 17 Section 1983 claim is not viable and should be dismissed.

18 II.

19 LEGAL ARGUMENT

20 A. Legal Standard of Review

21 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure Rule 12(b)(6) (“Rule 12(b)(6)”) provides that a complaint
 22 may be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. A Rule 12(b)(6)
 23

24 ¹ This date is prior to the date of the order of the Superior Court. At this time, this 25 answering defendant has no indication whether or not the dates are accurate, but rather, only recite the dates as alleged in Plaintiff’s Complaint for purposes of this motion.

26 ² Defendant Detective A. Fragoso is retired from employment with the City of San Diego.
 27 Accordingly, these answering defendants have no information indicating that service of process 28 of the Summons and Complaint have been effectuated upon Defendant Detective A. Fragoso and enter an appearance only on behalf of retired Detective J. Dreis and the San Diego Police Department.

1 motion to dismiss tests the sufficiency of the complaint. (Ilets v. Glock, Inc., 349 F.3d 1191,
 2 1199-1200 (9th Cir. 2003)). Generally, a complaint may be dismissed as a matter of law for two
 3 reasons: (1) lack of cognizable legal theory, or (2) insufficient facts under a cognizable theory.
 4 (Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729-732 (9th Cir. 2001)). Rule 12(b)(6) also “authorizes a court to 5 dismiss a claim on the basis of a dispositive issue of law.” (Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 326
 6 (1989); see also, Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995),
 7 “[a] dismissal for failure to state a claim pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) is a
 8 ruling on a question of law”) For purposes of a motion to dismiss, well-pleaded factual
 9 allegations of the complaint are generally presumed to be true. (California Motor Transport Co.
 10 v. Trucking Unlimited, 404 U.S. 508, 515 (1972)). However, conclusions of law or unwarranted
 11 deductions of fact or arguments are not sufficient to state a claim. (Frederiksen v. Poloway, 637 12 F.2d 1147, 1150 n.1 (7th Cir. 1981), cert. denied, 451 U.S. 1017).

13 As will be shown below, Plaintiff’s purported claim for relief against the San Diego Police
 14 Department fails because it is not a “person” for purposes of a Section 1983 claim for relief and 15 the claim for relief against Detective J. Dreis fails as insufficient facts have been pled under a 16 cognizable theory. Thus, all causes of action against these defendants should be dismissed.

17 B. Plaintiff’s Complaint Does Not Comply with Federal Rules of Civil 18 Procedure Rule 8

19 Plaintiff’s Complaint is captioned as a “Complaint Under 42 U.S.C. Section 1983.”
 20 However, it should be initially noted that Plaintiff’s Complaint does not comply with Fed. Rules
 21 of Civ. Proc. Rule 8, which states in pertinent part:

22 A pleading that states a claim for relief must contain:

23 (1) a short and plain statement of the grounds for the court’s jurisdiction, unless 24 the court already has jurisdiction and the claim needs no new jurisdictional support;

25 (2) a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to 26 relief; and

27 (3) a demand for the relief sought, which may include relief in the alternative or 28 different types of relief.

1 Plaintiff's Complaint contains none of the required elements for a claim for relief.
2 Specifically, while the Complaint recounts Plaintiff's personal journey through the American
3 justice system with some particularity, the Complaint lacks a short and plain statement of the 4 claim showing that Plaintiff is entitled to relief as to these defendants.

5 Defendant Detective J. Dreis is identified as a party in paragraph 13 of the complaint and 6 his association with this matter is that he "collected crime scene evidence and stored it."
7 (Complaint ¶ 13). Thereafter, in the 26 page Complaint, Defendant Detective J. Dreis is only
8 mentioned specifically by name one other time, in paragraph 20 when Plaintiff alleges that this
9 defendant "was responsible for [the] introduction of a false/alleged confession and evidence...."
10 (Complaint ¶ 20).

11 However, Plaintiff's Complaint herein does not allege any civil rights violation against 12 Defendant Detective J. Dreis based on a false confession. Rather, the crux of Plaintiff's claim for 13 relief is based on his allegations that DNA evidence which might be useful to prove his innocence
14 was improperly destroyed. The relief Plaintiff prays for, in part, is an order of this Court ordering
15 a search for the missing DNA evidence, an order appointing counsel as this case is "far too
16 complicated for plaintiff," and an investigation regarding the destruction of the DNA.

17 With regard to the civil rights allegation, Plaintiff request "[a]n injunction be issued
18 stating that plaintiff's rights under the Fifth, Sixth, Eight [sic] and Fourteenth Amendments to the 19 United States Constitution has been violated." (Complaint 24:21-23). Under these circumstances, 20 an injunction is not an appropriate relief under the circumstances for the alleged claim for relief
21 under Section 1983.

22 Accordingly, Plaintiff's Complaint fails to meet the pleading requirements of Fed. Rules
23 of Civ. Proc. Rule 8 with regard to these answering defendants.

24 C. The San Diego Police Department is Not a "Person" for Purposes of a Section
25 1983 Action

26 Plaintiff brings suit not only against individual officers of the San Diego Police
27 Department, but also the department itself. However, municipal departments, here the San Diego
28 Police Department, is not an appropriate defendant. Under Section 1983, a "person" acting under

1 color of law may be sued for violations of the U.S. Constitution or federal laws. The term
 2 “person” under Section 1983 encompasses state and local officials sued in their individual
 3 capacities, private individuals and entities which acted under color of state law, and local
 4 governmental entities. (Vance v. County of Santa Clara 928 F.Supp. 993, 995-996
 5 (N.D.Cal.1996)). But “persons” do not include municipal departments. (Id.) “Naming a
 6 municipal department as a defendant is not an appropriate means of pleading a § 1983 action
 7 against a municipality.” (Stump v. Gates 777 F.Supp. 808, 816 (D.Colo.1991)).

8 The San Diego Police Department is a department of the municipality of the City of San 9 Diego. Therefore, based on these legal precedents, the San Diego Police Department is not a 10 properly named defendant in this action and should be dismissed.

11 D. Defendant Detective J. Dreis Cannot Be Held Vicariously Liable for the 12 Action of Others

13 Plaintiff’s purported causes of action are brought under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and the Fifth,
 14 Sixth, Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments. (Complaint 24:21-23). In these causes of action, 15 Plaintiff complains of the destruction of DNA evidence post conviction. Plaintiff alleges that his 16 rights under the Fifth, Sixth, Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments were violated by refusing to 17 search for and provide DNA evidence that previously existed which Plaintiff claims is necessary 18 for him “to effectively litigate his claim he is innocent of crimes for which he is currently 19 incarcerated....” (Complaint ¶ 91). However, in the twenty six pages of the Complaint, Plaintiff
 20 never alleges that Defendant Detective J. Dreis was a party to the alleged destruction of the DNA
 21 evidence. Rather, Defendant Detective J. Dreis is only mentioned specifically by name one other 22 time, in paragraph 20 when Plaintiff alleges that this defendant “was responsible for [the]
 23 introduction of a false/alleged confession and evidence....” (Complaint ¶ 20). This allegation
 24 with regard to Detective J. Dreis bears no correlation to the gravamen of the Complaint – the 25 destruction of DNA evidence.

26 With regard to the alleged destruction of DNA evidence, Plaintiff alleges as follows: “An 27 order to destroy or release trial exhibits was issued by the Superior Court on August 6, 1987.”
 28 (Complaint ¶ 25). “The evidence in the trial Court’s possession was destroyed or otherwise

1 disposed of in February 22, 1987.” (Id.) However, there is no allegation that Defendant Detective
2 J. Dreis was involved in the alleged destruction of the DNA evidence, much less had a duty to 3 preserve the DNA evidence. Indeed, Plaintiff’s Complaint lacks specificity as to the parties who 4 had possession of the DNA evidence, who petitioned for the destruction order and who actually
5 destroyed the DNA evidence. Ironically, undercutting Plaintiff’s own allegations, Plaintiff
6 alleges that his own attorney at the time investigated the propriety of the destruction of DNA
7 evidence and concluded that “[o]ur investigation is now complete ... it can not [sic] be shown
8 that the evidence [sic] was wrongfully destroyed...” (Complaint ¶ 73).

9 Under the law, liability for a police officer’s actions under Section 1983 are solely 10 personal. (Duisen v. Administrator and Staff, Fulton St. Hosp., No. 1, Futon, Mo., 332 F.Supp.
11 125 (W.D. Mo. 1971)). There is no respondeat superior liability for allegations of violations of 12 Section 1983. (Ellis v. Blum 643 F.2d 68 (2d Cir. 1981)). In other words, another entity or person 13 cannot be held vicariously liable under Section 1983 for the acts of individual persons. (Monell v.
14 New York City Dept. of Soc. Serv., 436 U.S. 658 (1978)). Thus, under the law, Defendant
15 Detective J. Dreis cannot be held vicariously liable for the actions of another in a civil rights case.

16 In this case, Plaintiff has made no allegations that Defendant Detective J. Dreis was party
17 to the alleged destruction of DNA evidence. Rather, the only way Defendant Detective J. Dreis 18 appears to be connected to this matter is by the single allegation that “was responsible for [the] 19 introduction of a false/alleged confession and evidence....” (Complaint ¶ 20). Thus, it appears 20 that Plaintiff seeks to hold Defendant Detective J. Dreis responsible for the actions of others.
21 However, under the law, Defendant Detective J. Dreis cannot be vicariously responsible for the 22 alleged acts of others. Despite the clear legal authority, Plaintiff attempts to do what the law
23 clearly states that he cannot, to wit, hold Defendant Detective J. Dreis vicariously liable for the 24 alleged civil rights violations of other third parties. Accordingly, Plaintiff’s claims for relief
25 against Defendant Detective J. Dreis should be dismissed in their entirety.

D. Plaintiff Has Failed to Meet the Pleading Requirements for a Section 1983 Claim Against Defendant Detective J. Dreis

To state a claim under Section 1983, a plaintiff must allege that the defendant, acting under the color of state law, deprived him/her of a right guaranteed to him/her under the Constitution or a federal statute. (Karim-Panahi v. Los Angeles Police Dept., 839 F.2d 621, 623 (9th Cir. 1988)). “If the harm suffered by plaintiff is not more than the result of tortious conduct, an action under the civil rights act will not lie.” (Soto v. City of Sacramento, 567 F. Supp. 662 (E.D. Cal. 1983); Paul v. Davis, 424 U.S. 693, 701 (1976); Screws v. United States, 325 U.S. 91, 109 (1945)). Specifically, a Section 1983 plaintiff must show that he has been deprived of a federally protected right by reason of that conduct. (see Navarette v. Enomoto, 536 F.2d 277 (9th Cir. 1976)).

Moreover, plaintiffs must plead and prove specific facts in order to prevail on a Section 1983 claim. (Sherman v. Yakahi, 549 F.2d 1287, 1290 (9th Cir. 1977)). Vague and conclusive allegations are not sufficient to support a Section 1983 claim. (Keniston v. Roberts, 717 F.2d 1295, 1300 (9th Cir. 1983)). The purpose of Section 1983 was to create a “species of tort liability” which would compensate the actual injuries of one deprived of identifiable constitutional violations. (Carey v. Piphus, 435 U.S. 247, 263 (1978)). Thus, the initial inquiry is whether the plaintiffs allege an injury of constitutional dimensions. (Baker v. McCollan, 443 U.S. 137, 140 (1978)).

In this case, Plaintiff has made no allegations that Defendant Detective J. Dreis was party to the alleged destruction of DNA evidence, the basis of his civil rights claim. Rather, the only way Defendant Detective J. Dreis appears to be connected to this matter is by the single allegation that “was responsible for [the] introduction of a false/alleged confession and evidence was from detectives A. Fragoso and J. Dreis.” (Complaint ¶ 20). Accordingly, Plaintiff has not pled any facts to support an injury of constitutional dimensions, and therefore, has not met the pleading requirements for a cause of action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Thus, with regard to Defendant Detective J. Dreis, Plaintiff has wholly failed to plead a valid Section 1983 claim, and thus, as to him, the claim for relief in which they are named should be dismissed.

E. Defendant Detective J. Dreis Did Not Violate Plaintiff's Fifth, Sixth, Eighth and Fourteenth Amendment Rights

Plaintiff claims that his constitutional rights granted via the Fifth, Sixth, Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments were violated. As to Defendant Detective J. Dreis, based on the above, the Fifth, Sixth and Eighth Amendments are clearly not applicable. With regard to the Fourteenth Amendment, based on the above, Plaintiff has not alleged any facts which show how Defendant Detective J. Dreis allegedly violated either the equal protection or due process rights granted to Plaintiff under the Fourteenth Amendment. Accordingly, Plaintiff has failed to state a valid Section 1983 claim for relief.

III.

LEAVE TO AMEND

A court may dismiss a complaint without granting leave to amend only if it appears with certainty that the plaintiff cannot state a claim and any amendment would be futile. (Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 15(a), stating that leave to amend "shall be freely given when justice so requires;" DeSoto v. Yellow Freight Systems, Inc. 957 F.2d 655, 658 (9th Cir. 1992); Schreiber Distrib. Co. v. Serv-Well Furniture Co., 806 F.3d 1393, 1401 (9th Cir. 1986), stating, "leave to amend should be granted unless the court determines that the allegation of other facts consistent with the challenged pleading could not possibly cure the deficiency.")

In this case, Plaintiff is attempting to allege a claim for relief based on the alleged improper destruction of DNA evidence. There are no facts pled in this instant Complaint and no facts that could be pled in an amended complaint showing how Defendant Detective J. Dreis had a duty to preserve DNA evidence and breached that duty when he improperly destroyed said DNA evidence. Accordingly, Defendant Detective J. Dreis requests that leave to amend should not be granted.

IV.

CONCLUSION

Plaintiff's Complaint is wholly inadequate to state a claim for relief under Section 1983. For the foregoing reasons, Defendants Detective J. Dreis and the San Diego Police Department respectfully requests that its motion to dismiss be granted and leave to amend not be granted.
